HILO, HAWAII, USA

RAINFORREST CLIMATE AND WONDERFUL HIKING OPPORTUNITIES AWAIT YOU

In comparison to Kailua-Kona, Hilo is often described as "the old Hawaii." With significantly fewer visitors than residents, more historic buildings, and a much stronger identity as a long-established community, this quaint, traditional town does seem more authentic. It stretches from the banks of the Wailuku River to Hilo Bay, where a few hotels line stately Banyan Drive. The characteristic old buildings that make up Hilo's downtown have been spruced up as part of a revitalization effort.

Nearby, the 30-acre Liliuokalani Gardens, a formal Japanese garden with arched bridges and waterways, was created in the early 1900s to honor the area's Japanese sugar-plantation laborers. It also became a safety zone after a devastating tsunami swept away businesses and homes on May 22, 1960, killing 60 people.

With a population of almost 50,000 in the entire district, Hilo is the fourth-largest city in the state and home to the University of Hawaii at Hilo. Although it is the center of government and commerce for the island, Hilo is clearly a residential town. Mansions with yards of lush tropical foliage share streets with older, single-walled plantation-era houses with rusty corrugated roofs. It's a friendly community, populated primarily by descendants of the contract laborers – Japanese, Chinese, Filipino, Puerto Rican, and Portuguese – brought in to work the sugarcane fields during the 1800s.

One of the main reasons visitors have tended to steer clear of the east side of the island is its weather. With an average rainfall of 130 inches per year, it's easy to see why Hilo's yards are so green and its buildings so weatherworn. Outside of town, the Hilo District has rain forests and waterfalls, a terrain unlike the hot and dry white-sand beaches of the Kohala Coast. But when the sun does shine – usually part of nearly every day – the town sparkles, and, during winter, the snow glistens on Mauna Kea, 25 miles in the distance. Best of all is when the mists fall and the sun shines at the same time, leaving behind the colorful arches that earn Hilo its nickname: the City of Rainbows. The Merrie Monarch Hula Festival takes place in Hilo every year during the second week of April, and dancers and admirers flock to the city from all over the world. If you're planning a stay in Hilo during this time, be sure to book your room well in advance.

SIGHTS

- Akaka Falls State Park
- Liliuokalani Gardens
- Lyman Museum
- Kulaniapia Falls
- Richardson Beach Park
- Hilo Farmers Market

RAINBOW FALLS

The Rainbow Falls cascade 80 ft over a lava cave that, according to legends, is home to the ancient Hawaiian goddess Hina, the goddess of the moon. Compared to its significantly taller (422 ft!) neighbour, the Akaka falls, the Rainbow Falls are easier to reach and you can see the waterfall in close proximity. In the Hawaiian language, the rainbow falls are called "rainbow [seen in] water", or Waiānue.

COMING SOON

GET READY TO CELEBRATE

26th JAN - Australia Day

It is the official national day of Australia, honouring the 1788 landing of the First Fleet at Sydney Cove. On January 26, 1788 the Union Flag was raised by Arthur Phillip, marking the establishment of the first permanent European settlement on the continent of Australia. The locals enjoy this day with BBQs in the backyard, having a beer with mates, and proudly flying the Australian flag.

Please feel free to dress up in an Australian inspired outfit and join us for a delicious Australian Pub Lunch in The Restaurant on the 27th Jan (due to the date line crossing we skip the 26th Jan).

But not matter the date - it is always a good time to celebrate with tasty food! Bon Appetit!

LET'S CELEBRATE NATIONAL & INTERNATIONAL FOOD & BEVERAGE DAYS

TODAY: Peanut Butter Day (USA)

At Silversea Cruises, we take maximum food precautionary measures to ensure the safest quality product is offered to our guests; Worldwide Public Health Services advise that consuming raw or undercooked meats, seafood, shellfish, eggs, milk, or poultry may increase your risk of food-borne illness, especially if you have certain medical conditions.

HAND WASHING & HAND SANITIZING

Keeping hands clean through improved hand hygiene is one of the most important steps we can take to avoid getting sick and spreading germs to others. Many diseases and conditions are spread by not washing hands with soap and clean, running water.

Alcohol-based hand sanitizers can quickly reduce the number of germs on hands. Please use the hand sanitizers situated at the entrance door of the dining outlets and various locations around the ship.
